Brand guidelines

v.1.0

As our company enters its next chapter, the Realpage brand is evolving.

This guide is your foundation for bringing the Realpage brand to life. Inside you'll find the principles, tools, and examples that create a consistent experience across every interaction. Start anywhere—or explore it from beginning to end.

Brand foundation

Our foundation balances operational intelligence with human experience, giving the brand a voice that is confident, clear, modern, and deeply connected to the communities we serve.

Our purpose

Realpage is here to improve the business of living.

Helping real estate work better for the people who live, work and invest within it. We're positioning our brand at the intersection of these two concepts

Business

Serious
Established
Sophisticated
Confident
Universal

Living

Warm
Modern
Simple
Candid
Local

Our mission

We power the neighborhoods people call home.

For the capital that enables them, the operators who run them, and the residents who live in them.

Our vision

The AI-native operating system for rental housing.

Where intelligence, execution and trust operate as one synchronized platform.

Logo System

Our logo system is built for clarity, recognition, and flexibility. From the full Realpage wordmark to the abbreviated Rlpg. mark and supporting design accents, each expression reinforces a unified and distinctive brand presence.

Primary mark

Realpage.

Logo Usage Guide

The Realpage logo is our most recognizable brand asset. Consistent use protects its integrity, strengthens recognition, and ensures it appears clearly and confidently across every touchpoint. Always use approved logo files and follow these guidelines whenever applying the logo.

Do's

Use approved artwork

Always use official logo files.
Never recreate or redraw the logo.

Maintain clear space

Keep adequate clear space around the logo to preserve visibility and impact.

Ensure strong contrast

Choose the black or white logo based on the background to maximize legibility.

Scale proportionally

Resize the logo uniformly to maintain its intended proportions.

Keep it simple

Allow the logo to stand on its own without competing graphics or unnecessary effects.

Don'ts

Stretch or distort

Never alter the logo's proportions.

Change the colors

Only use approved brand color variations.

Add effects

Avoid shadows, outlines, gradients, glows, or other visual treatments.

Rotate or rearrange

Never rotate, separate, or modify any part of the logo.

Place on busy backgrounds

Avoid backgrounds that reduce contrast or compromise legibility.

When in doubt, prioritize clarity.
The logo should always appear clean, legible, and unchanged, allowing it to build recognition through consistent application.

Color palette

Our palette combines trusted blues, grounded neutrals, and our Heritage Orange, the signature accent that’s carried Realpage’s identity for nearly three decades.

Together, these colors create a system that feels intelligent, modern, approachable, and flexible across digital, print, and environmental applications, while staying instantly recognizable as ours.

Using the palette

Use the palette intentionally to create a clear visual hierarchy. The blues and neutrals should form the foundation of most communications, while Heritage Orange is reserved for moments of emphasis and brand recognition.

Primary blues establish trust, structure, and brand recognition.

Neutrals provide balance, improve readability, and create space for content to shine.

Heritage Orange Reserve our signature accent for emphasis, calls to action, and moments that deserve attention.

Typography

Our type system pairs expressive headlines with clear, readable body copy to create a voice that feels modern, confident, and easy to navigate.

Photography & illustrations

Our visual style brings the brand to life through elevated photography, sophisticated illustration, and architectural elements drawn from the buildings and communities we serve. Photography should feel warm, human, and editorial. Illustration adds clarity, depth, and a sense of forward-looking intelligence.

Voice & Tone

Every interaction shapes how people experience the Realpage brand. Whether we’re introducing a new product, sharing an industry perspective, or supporting a customer, our voice should feel consistent, authentic, and unmistakably Realpage.

Write like people talk.

We communicate with clarity and confidence using natural, conversational language.

We simplify complexity without oversimplifying ideas, making every message approachable and easy to understand.

Say more with less.

We respect our audience’s time. Every word should have a purpose, removing unnecessary complexity and focusing on what matters most.

Balance optimism with candor.

We believe in the future of our industry while acknowledging the challenges it faces today.

We lead with confidence, speak honestly, and ground optimism in credibility rather than hype.

These principles should be reflected in every headline, paragraph, presentation, email, and customer interaction.

Tone in practice.

Instead of...

Utilize our integrated technology platform to optimize operational efficiency.

Our innovative AI-powered capabilities enable best-in-class performance.

Leverage predictive insights to maximize portfolio performance.

We say...

Use one connected platform to simplify operations.

AI helps teams make better decisions, faster.

See what’s next and act with confidence.

Voice Checklist

Before publishing, ask:

- Does this sound like a real person?
- Is it clear before it's clever?
- Can it be shorter?
- Does it build confidence without exaggeration?
- Would someone recognize this as Realpage?

Clarity builds confidence.

We make complex ideas easier to understand without removing the depth behind them.

Writing style

Our voice is brought to life through consistent writing choices. These guidelines help create clear, approachable communications that feel unmistakably Realpage across every channel, from presentations and web experiences to emails, social content, and product marketing.

Headlines

Headlines should communicate one clear idea. Lead with the outcome, keep language concise, and use sentence case. Use a period only when the headline is a complete sentence.

Do

Lead with one clear message.
Write in sentence case.
Keep headlines concise.

Avoid

Multiple competing ideas.
Unnecessary punctuation.
Overly technical language.

Paragraphs

Write for clarity before complexity. Keep paragraphs focused on a single idea, use natural language, and organize information so it's easy to scan and understand.

Do

Keep paragraphs concise.
Write in active voice.
Use plain language whenever possible.

Avoid

Long, dense paragraphs.
Industry jargon when simpler language works.
Passive voice.

Emphasis

Typography should create hierarchy—not decoration. Use bold to guide attention, not to compete for it. Avoid unnecessary formatting that distracts from the message.

Do

Use bold sparingly.
Let hierarchy create emphasis.
Highlight only the most important information.

Avoid

ALL CAPS.
Excessive bold or italics.
Multiple emphasis styles in the same sentence.

Editorial standards

To maintain consistency across the Realpage brand, follow these editorial conventions. When questions arise, refer to the AP Stylebook as the primary style reference.

Write in active voice.

Use sentence case for headlines and body copy

Spell out one through nine; use numerals for 10 and above.

Write percent in body copy and use % in charts, tables, and graphics.

Use numerals for currency (for example, $5 million).

Every word has a purpose.

Naming

The way we write our name reflects the way we think about our brand. Realpage is written as one unified word with a capital R and a lowercase p. This styling reinforces that we operate as one company with one purpose.

Correct usage

Realpage

Use Realpage in marketing, communications, presentations, websites, social media, product materials, and everyday writing.

Avoid

RealPage

Do not use the previous brand styling with a capital P in marketing or brand communications. The lowercase p is intentional and reinforces our identity as one connected company rather than emphasizing the historical “Page.”

Trademark usage

Realpage®

Use the registration mark only when legally required. In body copy, it may appear on the first reference only. Do not use trademark symbols in headlines or repeat them throughout a document.

One company. One name.

Approved company descriptions.

Our boilerplate provides a consistent, approved description of Realpage for use in press releases, reports, presentations, websites, and other corporate communications. To maintain consistency across every touchpoint, these descriptions should not be modified. Use the version that best fits the available space.

Long form

Realpage is the leader in multifamily real estate technology. We're here to improve the business of living. Our platform gives property owners, managers, and residents a unified experience that can streamline operations, enhance decision-making, and simplify everyday life. By eliminating complexity, synchronizing intelligence, and uniting operations, we unlock the power of real estate in real time.

Short form

Realpage is the leader in multifamily real estate technology.

Usage

Use the long version for:

Press releases
Corporate reports
Company profiles
About pages

Use the short version for:

Presentations
Event materials
Social profiles

Every introduction shapes the brand.

Brand application

A brand isn't defined by individual elements—it's defined by how they work together. These examples demonstrate how our visual identity, voice, and design principles combine to create a consistent Realpage experience across every touchpoint.

Use these applications as inspiration rather than templates, ensuring every execution remains true to the principles outlined throughout this guide.

Great brands are built together.

Every message, every design, and every interaction contributes to a stronger Realpage. By applying these guidelines consistently, we create experiences that are recognizable, trusted, and uniquely ours.
