1. Purpose

Regular attendance and punctuality are essential for RealPage to provide excellent customer service and meet defined Service Level Specifications. Timely and regular attendance is an expectation of performance for all RealPage employees.

To ensure adequate staffing, positive employee morale, and to meet expected productivity standards throughout the covered groups, employees will be held accountable for adhering to their workplace schedule.

2. Scope

This policy applies to all employees at all job levels, including trainees of RealPage located in the Philippines across all business units and departments effective September 1, 2024.

3. Definitions

Employee – Refers to all types and levels of employees, including trainees and contractors if directly employed by the Company.

Supervisor – Any employee who is responsible for supervising the performance of another employee or trainee.

Present at Work – Means that the employee has logged in and is ready to perform duties, such as but not limited to accepting calls, on or before the assigned/scheduled working hours at the beginning of the employee's shift at the prescribed workplace.

For purposes of clarity, “workplace” can be in the office or in an approved remote location.

Prescribed Workplace – The place where an employee is expected to work at a particular time, i.e., in the office assigned for Work-in-the-Office Days, and at home or an approved alternative work location when remote.

Absence – The state of being away from work.

a. Planned Absence

Occurs when an employee will not be available for work due to a pre-arranged commitment or event properly approved by management. Planned absence may be paid or unpaid.

To be classified as Leave Without Pay (LWOP), a valid reason must be presented and approved by the immediate Supervisor in advance.

b. Unplanned Absence

Occurs when an employee is not present at work without prior authorization. This type of absence may be excused or unexcused.

Unexcused Absence – Occurs when an employee is absent from work without a valid reason and permission from management.

An employee is absent and unexcused when the employee:

- Fails to report to work for the scheduled shift or working hours.
- Fails to notify properly. For the avoidance of doubt, proper notification is defined in this policy under “Absence Notification Procedure.”
- Goes on unplanned absence despite having accrued paid time off (PTO) credits.
- Has no accrued leave credit and borrowed leave privileges.
- Fails to comply with all other requirements cited in related policies, including parental leave, maternity leave, and similar policies.

Excused Absence – Arises when an employee did not plan to be away from work but is absent for a valid reason. Notification process and documentation are required for an unplanned absence to be sub-classified as excused. See Section 4 for applicable conditions.

Tardy – Occurs when an employee fails to report for work at the assigned/scheduled work time.

Undertime – Occurs when an employee leaves work prior to the end of the assigned working hours, regardless of supervisor approval, and is treated in the same manner as tardiness.

Abandonment of Post – Occurs when an employee leaves at any point during the shift before the end of the shift without approval from the immediate supervisor or an authorized representative of the supervisor.

No Call No Show (NCNS) – A situation where an employee is absent without proper notice.

Absence Without Official Leave (AWOL) – Occurs when an employee who has notified the Company about the absence does not receive proper approval but still chooses to be away from work.

Critical Workday – Workdays when attendance has been determined by management to be critical to support the needs of the business.

Critical Workday Absences – Absences incurred during a Critical Workday.

4. Policy

4.1 Responsible Parties

Employee Responsibilities

Employees, including trainees as defined above, are personally responsible for understanding expectations and following rules around attendance, including but not limited to:

- a. Notifying the supervisor when unable to come to work on time or unable to come to work, while strictly following the call-in procedures articulated in this policy.
- b. Articulating the reason or reasons for tardiness, absence, and other related requests.
- c. Gathering and submitting supporting documents to support the reason for absence, tardiness, and other related requests.

Supervisor Responsibilities

The Supervisor is responsible for ensuring that:

- a. Their respective employees are aware of and follow this policy. A Supervisor is expected to emphasize the Company's Attendance Policy to remind employees of the rules around absences and tardiness.
- b. This policy is implemented, including but not limited to sanctioning employees who violate the policy following the appropriate procedure for issuing corrective actions and providing due process.
- c. Employee notifications regarding tardiness and/or absence are appropriately addressed.
- d. Absence and/or tardiness is reported to the appropriate parties, including but not limited to Workforce Management, Operations Management Team, Payroll Team, and HRBP, as appropriate.
- e. Maximum productive hours are maintained in the team by implementing consequence management as detailed in this Policy.

HR Business Partner Responsibilities

The HR Business Partner ensures that they:

- a. Support the Supervisor in situations requiring consequence management.
- b. Function as a consultant to Supervisors and other parties in implementing this policy, in conjunction with other relevant policies and statutory requirements.
- c. Supports Supervisors in ensuring proper documentation of absences, tardiness, and all processes articulated in this policy and related policies.

4.2 Attendance Requirements

Employees must schedule their time off in advance. However, recognizing that unforeseen circumstances may arise, this policy outlines regulations regarding absences.

Planned Absences

Employees accrue Planned Time Off (PTO) credits that they can use to take time off for vacations or other personal business. Employees with accrued vacation leave credits are eligible for excused absences by requesting approval for time off as outlined below.

Requested Number of Vacation Days — Business Days	Required Number of Days Prior to Approval
One (1) to six (6) days	At least one (1) week notice, except for emergency cases
Seven (7) to twenty-nine (29) days	At least two (2) weeks prior notice
One (1) month or more	At least one (1) month prior notice

Similarly, government-mandated leaves, if processed prior to availment, are considered planned and therefore authorized or excused.

Typical leaves availed of with advance notice include:

- Maternity Leave
- Paternity Leave
- Magna Carta for Women
- Solo Parent Leave
- Leave of Absence due to Medical Reasons

Each type of leave has requirements that employees must comply with.

Unplanned Absence

The burden of proof that the absence is valid lies with the employee.

Even in cases when an employee claims absence due to sickness, management reserves the right to seek a formal explanation and full documentation from the employee in case of failure to notify, when documentation is missing to justify the employee's absence within the timeframe prescribed by this policy, and/or as reasonably demanded by the Company.

Furthermore, an employee who applies for both PTO and unpaid leave due to sickness agrees to be examined by the Company physician, the HMO provider, a public health provider, or any other medical professional at the sole discretion and satisfaction of the Company.

The employee waives all privacy to Personal and Sensitive Personal Information about such illness and grants the Company authority to validate such illness or medical condition, including requesting documents from the employee.

Although unplanned, some leaves may be considered excused if the absence is caused by events authorized by the local government or a prevailing Company benefit. In all cases, the employee must meet the requirements for each type of leave below:

- Bereavement/Funeral Leave
- Leave for Victims of Violence Against Women and Their Children Act (VAW-C)

Similarly, an unscheduled absence due to sickness or emergency may be excused if the following criteria are met:

- The employee must contact the immediate Supervisor and Workforce hotline a minimum of two (2) hours prior to the scheduled time of work.
- If an unplanned absence due to employee sickness occurs for two (2) consecutive days, the medical certificate requirement strictly applies.
- If an emergency situation prevents the employee from providing two-hour advance notice, the employee must submit applicable documentation, such as a certified police report, medical documentation, or other emergency documentation that justifies the lack of advance notice, within five (5) business days of the absence.

Failure to provide required documentation may result in the Company treating the absence as unexcused, depending on the requirement or documentation failure.

Tardiness and Undertime

Every day, the Company requires an employee to be on time at the beginning of the shift and after every break, as well as to complete all required working hours for the day.

Understanding that unforeseen circumstances may arise, the Company gives an employee a total of ten (10) minutes of grace period or two (2) instances of tardiness/undertime every month, where the two incidents combined do not exceed ten (10) minutes.

When an employee has used all allowable time or instances of tardiness/undertime in a month, any succeeding tardiness/undertime will be considered an infraction and will be subject to disciplinary action depending on the number of instances outlined in the Attendance Policy consequences stated in this policy.

Unexcused Absences While on Training

For trainee absences due to illness that are classified as either excused or unexcused, the trainee will be subject to termination as specified in the voluntary training agreement.

However, subject to management discretion, a trainee may be recommended to complete the current training course or be reassigned to a future training course, if one is available.

Critical Workday Absence

On Critical Workdays, workload volume is expected to be high.

Management reserves the right to reclassify a previously determined workday, whether critical or non-critical. If a workday is reclassified, an announcement will be made one (1) day in advance.

Any unexcused absence incurred during a Critical Workday schedule shall be counted as two (2) instances and sanctioned according to this policy.

No Call No Show (NCNS) and Absence Without Official Leave (AWOL)

One (1) incident of NCNS or AWOL will not only be considered unexcused but shall also be counted as three (3) instances, subject to the disciplinary sanction stated in the table of consequences for Attendance Policy violations.

Progressive disciplinary action applies.

4.3 Absence Notification Procedure

The Company expects employees to follow departmental notification procedures if:

- a. They will be late for work.
- b. They need to leave work early.
- c. They will not be at work.
- d. They are requesting planned time away from work.

Employees must make the request in advance directly to their immediate superior and in accordance with departmental procedure.

Employees should notify their immediate Supervisor or Manager at least two (2) hours before their scheduled shift.

Notification to a fellow employee is not sufficient. The employee must make every attempt to talk directly with the immediate superior concerning the reason for the absence.

When applying for planned time off, an employee must refer to available accrued leave credits.

All pertinent requirements for the particular type of leave for which the employee is seeking approval must be complied with. This ensures appropriate implementation, including tracking of leave utilization.

In case of a long leave due to medical reasons, management has the discretion to require or order the employee to engage in a video call or conduct random house visits at the employee's place of residence.

The employee is expected to communicate in advance the covered days of absence based on the Medical Certificate issued to the employee.

The Medical Certificate must be sent to the employee's direct Supervisor/Manager via email or other means of communication.

5. Consequences for Attendance Policy Violations

An employee who allegedly incurs unexcused absence, tardiness, or undertime will be served with a Notice to Explain detailing the facts and circumstances of the violation related to this policy.

Instance	Consequence
1st Instance within a rolling 6-month period	Disciplinary Action: Written Warning
2nd Instance within a rolling 6-month period	Disciplinary Action: Second Written Warning
3rd Instance within a rolling 6-month period or 1st instance of NCNS/AWOL	Disciplinary Action: Final Written Warning
4th Instance within a rolling 6-month period or 2nd incident of NCNS/AWOL within a 6-month period	Disciplinary Action: Termination

6. Policy Administration and Progressive Disciplinary Action Process

The RealPage Human Resources (HR) Department and line management of the employees concerned are responsible for the administration of this policy.

The procedure below specifies the steps each responsible party must take in implementing this policy.

The immediate superior should monitor employee attendance on a regular basis and address unsatisfactory attendance in a timely and consistent manner.

If the immediate superior notices a pattern of unscheduled absences, the immediate superior should promptly discuss the concern with the employee.

The immediate superior is responsible for verifying and investigating employee absences before disciplinary action is recommended.

- a. All perceived violations must be formally reported to the immediate superior, who will review, study, and validate the report.
- b. In case of NCNS, a Return-to-Work Order (RTW) shall be sent to the employee's last known address. Whether the employee returns or not, the employee will be subject to the due process outlined in this policy. See the Return-to-Work Order Notice Template.
- c. After establishing the validity of the report, and where the penalty is a Final Warning or Termination, the immediate Supervisor, in coordination with the Human Resource Department (HRD), shall issue a memo to the employee stating clearly the charges and requesting a written explanation as to why disciplinary action should not be taken.

The memo shall be prepared in three (3) copies and distributed as follows:

- Original: Employee
- Duplicate: HRD / 201 File
- Triplicate: Immediate Superior file copy

d. The employee shall be given:

- Five (5) calendar days for offenses that may be punishable by termination or dismissal; or
- Three (3) calendar days for other offenses, from receipt of the memo to submit a written explanation.

e. If no written explanation is received after the applicable period has elapsed, this shall be construed as a waiver on the part of the employee to be heard and present the employee's side. In such instances, the Company will decide based on the facts on hand.

f. Upon the employee's submission of a written explanation, the immediate superior and HRD shall conduct a thorough investigation and evaluation of the case.

g. After the investigation and evidence have been gathered, the immediate superior shall recommend the disciplinary action to be imposed on the employee, with the concurrence of HRD.

h. After a decision has been made, HRD shall prepare the Notice of Disciplinary Action, which shall be subject to review and approval by the Philippine Legal Department. After approval, the Notice of Disciplinary Action shall be immediately served on the employee.

Timely and regular attendance is a performance expectation of all RealPage employees.

Consequently, employees who have exhibited unsatisfactory attendance and have been subject to disciplinary action, whether written or final, during the course of the year may have the incident or infraction documented in their annual performance evaluation.

7. Impact to Compensation

For clarity, the effects of absence, tardiness, and undertime will be as follows:

- All unexcused absences, even when an employee has leave credits, shall be unpaid and will therefore be deducted from the employee's pay.
- All excused absences without PTO credits, or without pay as specified by local laws, shall be unpaid leave and will therefore be deducted from the employee's pay.
- For non-exempt employees, all time resulting from being late, including over breaks, early breaks, and unauthorized log-offs, will also be deducted from the employee's pay.

8. Related Policies

The Attendance Policy will be implemented alongside other relevant public and Company policies, including but not limited to:

- Labor Code of the Philippines and its Implementing Rules and Regulations
- Employee Handbook
- Philippines Code of Conduct
- Zero Tolerance Policy
- Leave Policy

Business Unit/Group-Specific Policies and Processes

Groups such as Contact Center operations, including but not limited to RPCC, Insurance, Screening, and others, may have supplemental policies and procedures that shall be implemented to ensure staffing for critical intervals, including but not limited to a Schedule Adherence Policy.

9. Repealing Clause

This policy and the consequences for violating the Attendance Policy stated herein supersede the rules in Version 2 of the Company's Code of Conduct.

2.0	January 3, 2024	Draft prepared by Human Resources	Human Resources Business Partner Team	[Not provided]
3.0	July 26, 2024	Created two major categories of absence: Planned and Unplanned. Under Unplanned Absence, defined and articulated the conditions that make an unplanned absence excused or unexcused. Clarified that the burden of proving that an employee's unplanned absence is excused rests with the employee. Reduced the grace period from thirty (30) minutes to ten (10) minutes and limited it to a maximum of two incidents per month, provided the two incidents combined do not exceed ten minutes. Revised NCNS consequences from six incidents to one incident resulting in a Final Written Warning and two incidents resulting in dismissal, subject to due process.
